A hands-on workshop for English teachers

This dynamic four-hour workshop shows teachers how to develop confident, capable communicators by integrating reading, writing, listening and speaking in purposeful, engaging ways – fully aligned with Trinity College London's ISE exam.

Through practical, classroom-ready activities, participants will explore how ISE tasks naturally develop key communicative skills such as summarising, synthesising information, responding spontaneously, managing interaction and writing for a clear purpose. Rather than teaching skills in isolation, we will focus on designing lessons that reflect authentic language use and promote deeper learning.

Teachers will leave with adaptable strategies, ready-to-use classroom activities, and a clearer understanding of how the Trinity ISE framework supports not only exam success, but genuine communicative competence.
